Reflection Questions:

1. Did your estimations reflect the actual effort?
   Yes, our estimations were mostly close to the actual effort. Simple tasks needed fewer points, while complex tasks like generating the bracket needed more points.
2. Was your backlog well prioritized?

Yes, we prioritized the important features first, such as registering teams, creating tournaments and generating brackets. Less important features were planned later.

3. How did your simulated sprint align with your plan?
   Our sprint followed the plan well. We focused on registering teams, creating tournaments and validating team details, which gave us a good foundation for the next features.
4. What insights did the burndown chart give about your team's capacity?
   The burndown chart showed our progress and the remaining work. It helped us understand how much work we could complete within a sprint and plan future sprints better.
